SUPERVISORS GIVEN A LESSON IN NECESSITY OF STRICT ECONOMY

City Fathers, in Caucus Yesterday, Learn That the Sum of $2000 Will Be Balance on Hand at End of Present Year, Against $74,000 on First of Present One—Deputy Auditor Lloyd Prepares Interesting Figures

Items in the expense account of the city and county for present year:
Protection to life and property	$200,000
General Government	60,000
Courts	55,000
Sanitation and health	60,000
Recreation	54,000
Liquor Commission	7,500
Incidental	10,000
Maintenance of Roads	125,000
Total	$662,000
Revenue for 1913	$664,000
Balance on hand Jan. 1, 1914	$ 2,000
Balance on hand Jan. 1, 1913	$ 74,000

Meeting for six hours, laboring over the new budget which goes into effect the first of the year, the board of supervisors at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and afternoon had the necessity for strict economy demonstrated to them. Without finally passing on the measure, the city fathers discussed almost every item in it with the result that the majority of the large accounts have been informally agreed upon.

Figures compiled by James Lloyd, deputy city and county auditor, the most important and significant ones of which are given above, plainly corroborate the statement of Supervisor McClellan, chairman of the ways and means committee, that economy must be the watchword of the board in preparing the new budget.

Due to the creation of the new revolving fund, known as the cash fund, by which a sum amounting to about $2,000 a year is set aside, and due also to extra expenses of the city and county during the last semi-annual period, the balance to be carried over the first of the year is estimated at only about $2,000. This cash balance is made up of the fourth of one per cent on the assessed value of the real and personal property of the island, which is estimated at $87,000,000.

"Nine persons out of 10," says Lloyd, "do not know what it costs the government for running expenses—the people content themselves with thinking that it consists of paying enormous salaries to officials and clerks. As a matter of fact, a passing resume of the three quarterly reports of the auditor, showing disbursements of current revenues, will bring out that the expense of maintaining the city and county government for a year is approximately as follows:

GENERAL GOVERNMENT: Under this heading comes the salaries of all elective officers, with their office force and office expenses—$60,000 a year; of which $43,500 are salaries fixed by law.

THE COURTS: Including the salaries and expenses over which we have absolutely no control—$35,000 a year.

SANITATION AND HEALTH: Carrying with it the expense of a city and county physician, hospital and burial expenses, collection and disposal of garbage, milk and food inspectors—$60,000 a year.

RECREATION: Carrying the expense and upkeep of the parks and the Hawaiian band—$45,000 a year.

EXPENSE OF LIQUOR COMMISSION: Of which the city and county has no control—$7,500 a year.

INCIDENTAL EXPENSES: $10,000 a year.

"These figures show an expenditure of $457,500 out of current revenue for current expenses before one dollar can be diverted to the roads from such funds."

With only a $2,000 balance to be carried over, while last January $74,000 was the money on hand the first of the year, the problem presenting itself to the board of supervisors does not appear easy to solve. Though it has been conceded to the present board that it has been by far more

Secretary Desha Discusses the Matter of Mahuka Site Building with the Architects

By C. S. ALBERT

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—Initial steps have been taken to secure an additional $125,000 for the new federal building on the Mahuka site in Honolulu. It is believed that this sum will be added to one of the appropriation bills during the regular session this winter.

A bill providing for the increase of cost has been introduced in the house by Secretary Desha, acting for Delegate Kalaniana'ole.

The amount carried in the bill would bring the aggregate cost for site and building up to $1,450,000.

The supervising architect of the treasury, in discussing this matter with Secretary Desha, expressed the opinion that a further allowance of $125,000 would leave a total of $950,000 for the new building, exclusive of the site. He believed this would be sufficient to complete the structure in a satisfactory and acceptable manner.

OPPORTUNITY FOR LABOR IN EUROPE

GOOD—R. C. BROWN

Representative of Board of Immigration Returns After Two Years Abroad

Returning here after a two years' absence in Europe recruiting labor for the territorial board of immigration, Raymond C. Brown arrived by the steamer Sierra this morning, declaring that the opportunity was never brighter for the success of his work than at this time.

Recalled here by the board, it having been decided to abandon the

The board plain to the north of the infantry cantonment was thick with troops when the two general officers, with their staffs and the visiting naval men arrived at Lelienau. Horse, foot and wagon soldiers were formed ready for the review, and as soon as the visitors had taken the places near the reviewing point the command moved. Marching in company from the 15th and 1st regiments of infantry made an unusually impressive showing, this being the first review held since the strength of the companies has been materially increased. The organizations now average about 120 men, and this number makes a splendid showing in review. Colonel work, Mr. Brown will appear before the board at the next meeting and report on the splendid condition of several European countries for labor recruiting. Not only, he says, is it without difficulty that men can be secured to come to these islands, but the opportunity of chartering steamers to bring them here has never been better. The tonnage rates are much more favorable than formerly, he says.

Letters sent from here by Spanish and Portuguese immigrants, to their friends in the old country, ringing with praise of the islands and their employment here, have had the result, says Mr. Brown, of causing many laborers to wish to leave their native land for Hawaii.

Mr. Brown was last in Russia, where, he says, the success of his work was assured. Before going there he was in Poland. He received the communication from the board ordering him to return in the latter part of September, and on November 6 he sailed for New York.

"I have not seen any of the board members since my return," said Mr. Brown this morning. "I do not know that they plan to discontinue labor recruiting."

Asked what his plans were for the future, he said: "My plans are entirely with the board of immigration. I shall do what they instruct me to do."

The recruiting agent was met at the wharf by many of his old friends with whom he was associated before going into the service of the immigration board. He was, before then, inspector in charge of the federal immigration station here and very successful in his work. There is some talk that he may return to the federal service.

PRINCE IS ILL

(Special cable to the Japanese Chronicle.)

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 8.—Rear-admiral Prince Higashi-Fushimi is ill here with pneumonia.

JAPANESE VISITORS GUESTS OF ARMY AT REVIEW AT SCHOFIELD

Reading from left to right, Commander Denzo Moriama, of the Imperial Japanese Navy, with a visitor to this city in the steamer Idzumo, and Lieutenant Taku Yamagata. These officers have been the guests of General Funston, General Macomb, and the members of the department and brigade staffs, the Japanese officers made a motor trip to Haleiwa, where luncheon was served, and on the way to the Waialua resort a stop was made at Schofield to witness the review.

The broad plain to the north of the infantry cantonment was thick with troops when the two general officers, with their staffs and the visiting naval men arrived at Lelienau. Horse, foot and wagon soldiers were formed ready for the review, and as soon as the visitors had taken the places near the reviewing point the command moved. The organizations now average about 120 men, and this number makes a splendid showing in review. Colonel

Lyman W. V. Kennon, post commander, was the reviewing officer today and the men who marched formed a command that any officer might well be proud of.

Following the infantry, the 4th cavalry and 1st field artillery passed at the walk, trot and finally thundered by at the gallop. All in all, the review was one of the most impressive and effective garrison ceremonies ever held at Schofield, and the Japanese officers were unstinted in their praise of the appearance and discipline of the troops.

Besides the Honolulu officers and their guests, the review was witnessed by practically the entire population of Schofield, other than the troops actually engaged. There are several hundred cavalrymen and artillerymen, who, owing to lack of horses, were unable to take their places in the column, and a number of these turned out as spectators.

After the review the visitors made a short visit to the infantry club, and then took up the journey to Haleiwa.

L. T. PECK, IN NEW YORK, TELLS ABOUT TERRITORY

Will Stay for Franchise Legislation at Regular Session of Congress

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—L. T. Peck, president of the Honolulu Rapid Transit and Land Company, and cashier of the First National Bank of that city, is in New York at the Hotel Astor for a visit here of two weeks. Mr. Peck was in Washington, D. C., before coming here and appeared before the senate committee regarding the currency bill, as it came from the house of representatives. He said that the bill was in such shape that its adoption would have left the national banks of Hawaii out of consideration.

In an interview here Mr. Peck said: "I was asked to appear before the senate committee to suggest a proper amendment to the currency bill as it came from the house, where Hawaii had been altogether lost sight of. The bill was so framed that it would have automatically dissolved the five insular national banks in the territory. It provided that the federal reserve districts should be limited to continental territory of the United States and that national banks in the association which did not come into the new regional system within a year would be dissolved. After my testimony I was assured by the senate committee that our island national banks would not lose their charters."

To Wait for Regular Session.

"I have come on to wait for the regular session of Congress," Mr. Peck went on to say. "The charter of our street railway system has been

PEARL HARBOR SITUATION CAUSES DANIELS TO URGE BIG DRYDOCK ON THE COAST

Recommends That Congress Enter Contract with Union Iron Works on Basis of Tonnage Handled — No Suggestion That Local Project Be Abandoned, but Urgent Need for Accommodation of Navy Vessels Is Emphasized

(Associated Press Cable)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 8.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels has asked Congress to enter into a contract with the Union Iron Works of San Francisco for the construction of a huge drydock capable of handling navy vessels. He urges that the contract be made on the basis of tonnage handled for the government by the firm's proposed drydock and says that the drydock should be 1100 feet long, 120 feet wide and 35 feet deep.

This drydock, it is estimated, would cost $2,500,000. The collapse of the structure at Pearl Harbor and the inaccessibility of Mare Island together with the present urgent need of such a drydock are given as the determining needs for the move made by Daniels.

The Associated Press dispatch above does not suggest that the Pearl Harbor drydock is to be given up, and those conversant with the Pearl Harbor situation declare that it will not be given up. The dispatch above evidently refers to the need for a large drydock in the Pacific capable of handling navy vessels within a short time from now, and indicates that the navy department does not expect the Pearl Harbor structure to be completed at as early a date as the Union Iron Works might finish the drydock Secretary Daniels urges.

NEW ZEALAND WOULD HAVE NAVY UNDER CONTROL OF COLONIAL GOVT.

(By Latest Mail)

WELLINGTON.—The naval statement was made by the premier, Mr. Massey, in the house of representatives. He said that Colonel Allen, the minister of defense, had arranged with the admiralty that New Zealand should train her own personnel, the admiralty lending a sea-going training ship and the necessary complement of officers and men to be under the administration of the New Zealand government. The admiralty were also to station in New Zealand waters two light cruisers formerly belonging to the Australasian squadron. After his return Colonel Allen submitted to his colleagues this arrangement, with an additional proposal for the early building of a cruiser of the Melbourne type, which the admiralty deemed most suitable for the protection of commerce. The government decided that the offer of two such light cruisers was an excessive departure from the 1903 agreement, and asked the admiralty to substitute two Bristol cruisers, the government undertaking to provide an additional £50,000.

The admiralty telegraphed on October 2 refusing because the available British cruisers were required elsewhere and were superfluous in New Zealand waters. A New Fast Cruiser.

Falling a satisfactory arrangement before next session the government proposed building in Great Britain a fast cruiser, probably a Bristol, costing about £400,000. This ship, or any other acquired by New Zealand, would be administered by New Zealand in time of peace, but would automatically pass under the direct control of the admiralty on an outbreak of hostilities; it would also be available for admiralty purposes if otherwise urgently required. Meanwhile the government takes the Pliomet to begin training men, anticipating no difficulty as regards sufficient recruits.

The admiralty had agreed to continue the present arrangement whereby two naval cadets at Osborne and Dartmouth were to be at the disposal of New Zealand, but the ordinary channel for naval cadets, probably six annually, would be the Australian.
